Barnsley Council are seeking a Trading Standards Officer to join the team based in Barnsley.

Regulatory Services at Barnsley protect the health, safety and well-being of those who live, work in and visit the borough, enabling local businesses to comply with their regulatory responsibilities and protecting consumers in the Borough.

Creativity, ambition and a focus on people. That's what matters at Barnsley Council. Our award-winning council is on an exciting journey of change. It's all about putting local people at the heart of everything, listening to and doing good for our communities. We're now more innovative, more efficient and provide better value for money. The changes are clear to see - from new businesses and jobs, to improving school results and to museums being recognised for their community engagement.

Your role in our journey

You will be part of a team covering a range of trading standards work, sharing out investigations and conducting project work to ensure an even playing field for businesses. Focusing on key areas including food standards, product safety, criminal fair trading and metrology. You will also be part of the wider Trading Standards team, including Tobacco

Control and Animal Health and may be asked to provide support in these areas if required.

What you'll need

To join us, you'll need a Degree in Trading Standards (or equivalent) and the successful completion of DTS/DCATS (or equivalent) modules/portfolios in Metrology, Food and or Agriculture/Feed. You will also need recent relevant enforcement experience within the last 3 years.

We will also expect you to bring to the role a commitment to work flexibly, and an appetite for engaging in professional development where required to conduct certain duties.

A lot to look forward to here at Barnsley, we live and work by four important values: honesty, teamwork, excellent service, and taking pride in what we do. As part of our team, you can be sure we'll do all we can to support you in being truly excellent.
