

Principal Trading Standards Officer
Ealing Council, West London
£55,323 to £57,402

Are you passionate about protecting consumers, promoting fair trading, and tackling rogue traders? Join us at one of London's most vibrant and diverse boroughs, offering a unique and rewarding environment for regulatory professionals and take the lead in delivering high impact enforcement and compliance work.

As a senior member of the team, you will drive activity across one or more specialist areas, including Weights and Measures, playing a key role in upholding trading standards legislation and supporting a fair and vibrant local economy. Your work will directly contribute to safeguarding residents and ensuring businesses operate responsibly.

We're looking for a motivated and experienced professional who can make an immediate impact. You will have:

- Full qualification as a Trading Standards Officer with Weights and Measures
- Significant experience in criminal investigations and prosecution work within an intelligence-led framework
