

Join Sefton Council as a Senior Trading Standards Officer and make a difference in our beautiful borough.

Are you looking for a Trading Standards role where no two days are the same?

Sefton is home to one of the UK's busiest ports, vibrant towns, major events, thriving businesses and diverse communities. We're looking for an experienced and motivated Trading Standards Officer to join our Public Protection team and help deliver work that makes a real difference to consumers, businesses and communities across the borough.

In this varied and rewarding role, you'll lead complex investigations and enforcement activity across a broad range of Trading Standards functions, including product safety, illicit tobacco and vapes, counterfeit goods, rogue traders, animal health and border controls. You'll also provide technical expertise and operational support to colleagues, helping to shape and develop the service while maintaining the highest professional standards.

This is an excellent opportunity for someone who enjoys tackling challenging investigations, leading by example and working in partnership with colleagues and external agencies to achieve positive outcomes. If you're passionate about consumer protection, supporting legitimate businesses and delivering high-quality regulatory services, we'd love to hear from you.

Join Sefton Council and play a leading role in protecting consumers, supporting fair trading and delivering one of the most diverse Trading Standards portfolios in the country.
