Professional Competency Product Safety Trainer

Multiple cohorts throughout the year

Chartered Trading Standards Institute

CTSI are looking for a trading standards professional with a background in product safety to become the trainer for the CTSI Professional Competency in Product Safety. The role involves training candidates and assessing their work against the competency fairly, consistently and accurately.

You will have strong knowledge and experience of product safety and market surveillance. Experience of training or assessing would be an advantage.

Cohorts run at various times of the year. You will ensure all training and assessment processes are met and be able to work under pressure and to set deadlines. This is a paid role in line with the current CTSI payment structure.

You will also support development work for the competency, including reviewing and updating training and assessment materials, working closely with the Education and Training Manager.

For further details about CTSI visit www.tradingstandards.uk.
For further information please contact Ricky Cowles (Education and Training Manager) via richardc@tsi.org.uk

The closing date for receipt of your CV is noon on 23 October 2026. Interviews are expected to commence shortly thereafter.
