

Trading Standards Officer - £38,546 - £44,833 per annum

Join our team as a Trading Standards Officer within the Office of Fair Trading on the Isle of Man!

Well-connected and at the centre of the British Isles, the Isle of Man is a self-governing nation and a UK Crown Dependency. Our Office of Fair Trading forms a small, professional team committed to working to protect, inform, advise, support and represent the interests of consumers in our Island community.

You will use your knowledge and experience in a wide range of trading standards functions, and your excellent organisational and communication skills to effectively manage staff and lead a small team of four officers, dealing with day-to day management issues, overseeing their work and developing and driving investigative activities.

You will not only enforce legislation but also contribute to the drafting of new statutes, adding value to our organisation and Island.

Your work will be varied and include working with different manufacturing and retail businesses, as well as unique events such as the world-famous TT and Manx Grand Prix, allowing you to work closely with other Government agencies, both on the Island and other jurisdictions.

Closing date: 7 February 2021
