Speakers: Dilys Harris

Trading Standards Wales/Safonau Masnach Cymru

Find out more about a recently launched multi lingual allergen resource in English, Welsh, Bengali, Cantonese, Kurdish, Mandarin, Punjabi, Turkish and Urdu. Hosted on CTSI website, suitable for food businesses, food law enforcement officers and educational establishments.

Learning outcomes:

This session will feature a recently launched multilingual allergen resource suitable for food businesses, food law enforcement officers and educational establishments which is hosted on the CTSI website.

The on line resource developed by the Greater Gwent Food Group with the support of Lancashire County Council Trading Standards, the Food Standards Agency and Trading Standards Wales, is suitable for local authorities in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

Session attendees will be introduced to the resource which aims to:

- Raise food allergy awareness
- Promote the importance of a positive food safety culture and the supply of safe food that consumers can trust
- Make allergen training material accessible to a wide reaching varied audience
- Inform Food Business Operators of allergen labeling requirements including changes brought about as a result of Natasha's Law
