

Local Regulator Preparedness for EU Exit

The Office for Product Safety and Standards is hosting a seminar on local Regulator preparedness as part of the preparations for EU exit. Significant work has already been undertaken and the seminar provides an opportunity to consolidate knowledge and understand impact on the regulation of product safety and legal metrology. This seminar is intended for primary authorities and other local authorities that provide advice to businesses and carry out compliance and enforcement activities.

The programme for the day will cover:

- An overview of preparations for likely scenarios
- New databases and when to use them
- Changes to legislation in the case of a 'no deal'
- CE marking and the UK Conformity Assessment mark
- What arrangements are in place for ports and borders
- Broader business preparedness activity

This event is taking place on Monday 7 October 2019 at Austin Court in Birmingham. Click here to book your place.
